RAD

(Raising Adolescents Drug-free)

Parent Support Group

"There is Hope"

For parents who have children who are at risk for using drugs or are already experimenting with or abusing them.

No charge for Group

RAD is a bi-monthly, educational, self-help group for parents and other interested family members and friends.

- No charge and no time commitment required
- No need to register, just show up
- Sharing is optional, education is not

When trying to help, education is the key

This is a new educational, self-help, support group designed for parents of adolescents. All other interested family members and friends are also welcome at our meetings.

The purpose of the group is for parents to learn tools and strategies for helping their children avoid the temptations and pitfalls of today's drug-age.

Group meets on 2nd and 4th
Wed. of each month
6:30pm to 8:00pm

*Note: First Meeting
February 26, 2020*

At Calvary Healing Center

In Family Center (at rear of property)

Facilitated by Mike Speakman, LISAC -Family educator

Mike is a licensed substance abuse counselor on staff at Calvary Healing Center. In his private practice, he is also a Parent-Education life coach.

Mike started RAD for parents because so many young people are getting involved with drugs and alcohol these days. Studies show that 90% of all alcoholics and addicts, regardless of age, started using in their teen years.

Because we cannot keep our children from experimenting with drugs, the goal of RAD is to provide updated, practical, parenting skills that can reduce the benefits a child gets from using alcohol and drugs.
